Editors Dispatch: I notice in Molitic Bawn's letter from Cold Sulphur Springs in your issue of this date a question which you do not answer. She wants to know the author of the quotation: "Consistency, thou art a jewel!" If I may answer. I will say that, according to my recollection, the earliest known writer who quotes the language does so in terms which seem to indicate the authorship:

"Consistency, thou art a jewel! Was said of late by für John Sewell." Very respectfully,

That is a suspicious note, Mr. J. Who is your authority? Where did you get the try parts women just like her, barring the northern accent, to which my ear will not two lines?

New England by the Back Door as Looked into by a Southerner. respondence of the Baltimore Sun.] LEBANON, CONN., August 25, 1880. LETTER No. 9.

Letter No. 9.

Looking closely at the face of one of those women whose habit it is to do the washing of the family, I saw, what I had not before observed, that in her youth she must have been quite pretty. Her education had not been neglected, her tastes were refined, her brow showed intellect. The vivacity, the ease and grace of manner, the flow of conversation on many topics, so natural to women of leisure, were wanting. They had gone, methought, into the wash-tub and cooking-stove. And yet, tired as she was on washing and froning-days, she was not unhappy. Her father, a man in good circumstances, not grasping, but noted rather for his liberality, bad preferred for her the school of the milliner to the fashionable boarding-school, and as a milthe fashionable boarding-school, and as a millioer she had worked for many years. Her husband, who is evidently prospering and certainly is kind, thinks it no hardship for her do the work to which I have alluded. Neither be nor his wife appear to record it.

than milking, chooping wood, gardening, etc.; but thousands of husbands do these things as a matter of course. I have seen a professional man, well enough off to be thought rich in our part of the world, blacking his shoes on his front porch, where every passer-by could see him. The minister in ——, a man of attainments, often passed through the principal street of the village, pall in hand, on his return from milking. Illustrations drawn from his personal experience as a farmer gave a point to his sermons that nothing else could have given. The richest citizen in the village band. Not only hotel-men, but merchants, doctors, &c., have carried my trunk up and down stairs. Only the large city hotels indulge in the luxury of a porter. My landlord in Litchfield said he had been thinking for a long time about getting a little darky to set up in business as a bootblack. "We three hotels," said he, "ought to give him a good living." In brief, the men as well as the women of New Bngland know how to use their hands, and are not afraid to soil them. It is the custom of the country, and one of long standing. "A Lebanon town account of services and supplies upon this occasion" (the breaking out of the revolution) "made out subsequently, as in all the towns of Connecticut, for settlement at the colonial treasury.

"Yes," is the answer. "I don't care who hears me sing."

I do not know it to be a fact, but think it quite probable that she helps in the houseTrumbull, "whose long and well-spent life keeping, and possibly in the cooking and in the service of his country," said Washing also. Her father owns a farm some ington, entitled him to rank "among the three miles from town, to which he goes in first of patriots." He was in no small dethe morning and returns at night. His hun- gree the Carnot of his day, the organizer of the morning and returns at hight. His hundred acres have enabled him to build this handsome, we'l-equipped house of ten or twelve rooms, with bay-window, &c., in the modern style.

And now it is high time I should say something about Lebanon itself. My sole motive for coming here was to see Yankees motive for coming here was to see Yankees whose abdominal regious were as azure as any in the hottest radical centre of Massachusetts. A lawyer in Litchfield assured me I would find them here, and an intelligent gentleman of the town confirms his statement. On this head more anon.

An intoxicated man, anxious to bet everybody any amount on anything, occupled the same seat with me on the way from New Haven to New London, and at the latter place the smoking-car was invaded by a lot of young fellows in red-flannel nectics, who yelled and carried on at a prodigious rate. The conductor looked on it silence, but the passengers enjoyed their pranks, such as passengers enjoyed their pranks, such as snatching eigars out of each other's mouths, pulling hats over heads, and so on. They were members of a club of some kind, who had been wining and dining in New London that day. This is the only unbecoming conduct I have seen during my three-week.'

Tormerly a distinguished awyer of Amherst county, Va. In the partition of the estate became the property of Mr. Claiborne's granddaughter, Mrs. Dr. R. T. Coleman, of Richmond.

"Why, Louisa, I exclaimed, "I feel as if we were kinfolks." A fat, jolly soul, unlike the negroes born at the North, she laughed heartily at bils.

the negroes born at the North, She haughter visit.

The New London Northern railroad takes you up the valley of the beautiful Thames, past Yantie, Norwich, Norwich Town, and divers towns and villages whose names have forgotten. A few miles south of Williamstic is Lebanon Station, as lonely a looking place as you will find in this thicklysettled country. Right was approaching the driver of the mail-wagon was not forthcoming, but soon would be. It turned out that, having no mail to meet on the train that brought me up, he had gone to a neighboring town on business and did not make his appearance tilt the following morning. This fortunstely enabled me to sup a que house and sleep at another, thus giving the new relumpse of life. At the first house the hat-rack made me think that I had run into a female boarding-school, so full of feminine boadgear was it. There were a number of young indies, two or three of whom were school-leachers taking a rustic vasation, a married lady boarder; the mistress of the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house of the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, who got burned to the house and her two daughters was a lively girl, and go this young lady and ber sister while they were helping their widowed mother wash up the things" after supper. I was still more pleased with the old lady at whose house I slept. She served breakfast herself, and no doubt cooked it herself, with little or no assistance from the hired girl, the only one that I have met outside the hotels and the houses of the wealthy. When I praised the old-fashioned ewer and basin, adorned with dark-blue pictures, she brought me curious specimens of delf; cheap ware, but very old and uncommon. The rest of the family had eaten breakfast; we had a little chat to ourselves. Four brothers named M——, three of whom had married three sisters, lived just here. She was one of the sisters. Her children and the children of her sisters had grown up, married, died, moved away—the old, old story of human life. Some of them lived near her, others not far off; nephews, nieces, and grandchildren were all around her. She had a home circle—that was all she desired. Tranquilly her life had passed within that circle. I looked at her and her house. It was an humble abode, rusty red in color, much of the paint having worn away; but it was clean and pure within. The rag-carnet, the stick-back chairs, the thin-legged dining-table, with leaves to it; the old lady herself—tail, pale, thin, clad in a faded but neat gown, a little cold and precise in her manner to the stranger—how often I have seen in our country parts women just like her, barring the northern accent, to which my ear will not accustom itself.

. Madam, will you consent to board me for a week?"

Twice or thrice I pressed the question, but finally, with decision but not unkindly, she declined, on the plea of inability at her age to provide for more than her own

at 12 o'clock M., the FARM called "Meadow Farm," in the county of Hanover two miles below Mechansville and seven miles from Richmond by pike. It courales 040k ACRES, of which about 75 acres are Chickahomiay lowgrounds; 125 in woods, a large portion of which is of white oak and pine of original growth. The nighland is well adapted to the growth of trucks, in which it has been largely cutivated for many years, and consequently is in good condition. The MANSION contains eight rooms, besides dining-cooks, and store-cooms in the basement, halls, closets, &c. A hydr-int at the door furnishes a constant and aboundant supply of excellent water from a never-falling spring-a luxury not often met with. A large barn, stable, and all necessary out-buildings. Nost the mansion is a COMFORTABLE DWELLING of five-rooms, and half a mile distant is a NEW DWELLING of four good tabins, occupied by tenants-all built within the past few years. An orchard of about 150 fruit-trees—peach, apple, and pear. A stream of water, running through the entire length of the farm, furnished an abundant supply of water for stock. Mills and cherches convenient. If it should be the desire of purchavers to buy smaller tracts, it will be offered in five farms, varying from 60 to 234 acres each, according to the plan of a division by recent survey, which can be seen at the office of the auctioneers and on the farm. Hill, and others. This is a good little farm, and can be easily improved and made to yield well of corn, wheat, oats, &c.

Immediately after the sale of the farm, we will sell the MILL PROPERTY adjoining, fronting on the River road four and a haf miles below the city. The MILL TRACT contains 194 ACRES. This property will sell low, and must within a reasonable time be worth much more, and purchasers desping a good farm near the city will do well to attend; and a good business can be done with the mill if a small outlay be made.

TERMS: One third cash; balance in six and twelve months, negotiable notes, interest added, and title retained till all the parchase-money is paid and a conveyance is ordered by the Court.

L. Lester, surviving partner, &c., vs. Lucy Fuqua's administrator and als.," entered on the 16th day of October, 1834, and 12th day of May, 1880, we, the undersigned commissioners, will sell by public auction at the front door of the court-house of Chesterfield county, on MONDAY, 13TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1880, (court-day,) at 12 o'clock M., the VERY DESIRABLE AND VALUABLE TRACT OF LAND, in Chesterfield county, of which Lacy Fugua died seized and possessed, and containing FOUR HUNDED AND TWENTY-THREE ACRES.

This property is very near the Clover-Hill pits and only a half mile from the Clover Hill railroad. It is one of the best farms in that portion of the county; dwelling and necessary out-buildings thereon. About one third of it is in cultivation, and the residue well timbered. Supposed to contain a fine deposit of coal, lying immediately in the coal region.

that being court-day, the REAL ESTATE of George Booker, situated on James river in Buckingham county, and referred to and described in the papers and proceedings in said cause, and not including the real estate conveyed by Geor. Booker to Camm Patteson, trustee for Sarah J. Booker and her child. Mary Louisa Booker, by deed dated November 25th, 1878. The TRACT OF LAN to be sold by recent survey contains SEVENTY-FOUR ACRES OF FIRST-CLASS JAMES RIVER LOW-GROUNDS: TWO HUNDRED AND NINETY-FIVE ACRES OF SUPERIOR CLEARED HIGH LAND; and NINE HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FIVE ACRES OF HEAVILY-TIMBERED WOODLAND. It is immediately on the line of the Richmond and Alleghany railroad, and about three unless below the town of Howardsville. This tract contains a BEAUTIFUL BUILDING-SITE in plain view of the river, with a grove and orchard adjacent thereto. It has all necessary outbuildings, and the cleared high-land and wood-land is extremely fertile, while the low-grounds are among the very best on the river. It is convenient to churches and schools and situated in an elegant neighborhood. It is believed that there is a vein of line magnetic ore running through the farm. It is rore that such handsome and valuable property is on the market, and the title is believed to be perfect.

Said land will be sold subject to a debt of $4,000, with interest thereon payable annually from the 1st day of January, 1880, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, and to be compounded if not promptly paid, and which is secured by a trust deed executed by George Booker to M. M. Gilliam and J. D. Horsley, trustees, which is of record in the clerk's office of the County Court of Buckingham. The principal of said debt is only payable upon the order of the Changery Court of the city of Richmond, on the majority of W. W. Akers, who is about seventeen years of age.

the instority of W. W. ARCES, who is about seventeen years of age.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash enough to pay costs of suit and saise—say about $300—and the further sain of $500, and as to the residue of the purchase money there shall be a credit of one, two, three four, and five years, equal instaments, hearing interest from day of sale until paid, and to be evidenced by bonds of the purchaser, with good personal security, and the it is retained as additional security.
